The information provided in these FAQs is intended for informational purposes only. While we strive to address a wide range of topics, please be aware that the content might not be exhaustive. The information is subject to change without prior notification. It's important to note that the FAQs do not supersede or take precedence over any applicable terms and conditions, whether from our end, the carrier, subcontractors, or any other involved parties.*

Booking

1. How do I make a booking? You would have already received a quotation from us which will include a unique quotation reference: QXXXXX. To confirm your booking, please reply to your quotation email with the following details:
 1. The date of the vessel which you would like to book
 2. Your documentation & Information
 - a. A copy of your passport
 - b. The vehicle registration/title
 - c. Addresses in the departure and destination country
 - d. Vehicle Value
 3. If applicable, a copy of:
 - a. Your temporary import permit (TIP)
 - b. Carnet De Passage
 - c. Bill of sale (for permanent exports/imports)
 4. Confirm which currency you would like to pay in £$€ etc.
 5. Confirm whether you would like marine cargo insurance or not
2. What are the next steps? Once we have received your documentation and information, we will proceed to make your booking and provide you with the following:
 - Booking confirmation (normally we would provide this in 1 to 4 working days)
 - Delivery instructions and paperwork (we would provide this around 10 to 14 days prior to delivery of the vehicle)
 - If you need to work with one of our local agents in the country, we will also provide this information to you.
3. Do I have to provide a deposit? No, you do not need to provide a deposit to secure a booking.
4. Can I change or cancel my booking? Yes, you may change (once) or cancel your booking free of charge until the earlier of a) 14 days prior to the sailing date, b) we have incurred any costs c) have started work on your export paperwork. If you cancel or change your booking after this, then a minimum $250 cancellation fee will apply plus any incurred costs (customs clearance, insurances or any other costs incurred) any costs incurred will be fully payable, in addition to any cancellation fees.

Delivery / Export

5. When do I have to deliver my vehicle to the port? Generally, vehicles need to be at the port 3 to 4 working days in advance of sailing however this does change depending on the port. For example, in Southampton, UK, the vehicle only needs to be there 2 working days in advance, in the USA, the vehicle needs to be there at least 5 working days in advance. We will confirm the cut-off date for delivery with your booking confirmation.
6. Can I leave my vehicle at the port or warehouse earlier? In the majority of cases, yes you may leave the vehicle at the port or warehouse prior to the cut-off date, normally there is a set amount of free time. If the vehicle is delivered in advance of the set free time, then there may be additional storage charges. Free time is dependent on the carrier and port, therefore if you do wish to deliver the vehicle early, please contact us.
7. Will you provide me instructions for delivery to the port or Warehouse? Yes, we will provide you with full delivery instructions to the port or warehouse, and any other information and documentation required. This is normally provided shortly before your sailing (1 – 2 weeks in advance).

FAQ'S

8. Do I need to deliver the vehicle empty of fuel? It depends on whether you are shipping via container or Roll on Roll Off. For Roll on Roll Off services, the vehicle must have less than one-quarter of a tank of fuel, for container services the vehicle should be delivered with the fuel in the red. This is to ensure that the container can be shipped non-hazardous, if the fuel requires draining there will be an extra cost and there are additional costs to ship hazardous.
9. Does my vehicle have to be clean? Generally, cargo should be delivered clean, free of any oil, soil, dust, grease or other contamination, this includes all surfaces, both internal and external. For certain destinations, customs and quarantine will inspect the vehicle and a higher level of cleaning is required, for example, Colombia, Canada, USA, Australia and New Zealand. In some cases, proof of cleaning may be required.
10. Am I allowed to ship my vehicle with gas? No removable gas cylinders are allowed, fixed tanks must be fully empty of all gas, some ports and carriers may request a gas-free certificate, and you must declare this to us at the booking stage so that we can seek the carriers permission if required. Generally, we would recommend buying gas in the country of destination, as it is likely you would need adapters to fill the canisters in any case. For further information, please contact us.
11. Should I take photos of my vehicle? Yes, on delivery of your vehicle you should record the condition of your vehicle, which should include taking comprehensive photos of the vehicle, inside and out. This would help with any insurance claim, or claim against carrier or port if any damage were to occur during the shipping process.

Please note without evidence of the condition of the vehicle on delivery to the port warehouse or where you hand it over for shipping, it is extremely difficult to make any claim for damage and therefore we strongly recommend photos are taken upon delivery and email to us so that we have a record of the same

12. Is a condition report or survey required / recommended? We would recommend that a survey/condition report is carried out for cargo, this is to prove the condition that it was delivered to the port and in case there is any damage to the cargo. If you would like a survey or condition report to be carried out please let us know and we will contact the port to find out the costs. Some carriers may request that a survey is carried out, any costs in relation to the survey will be billed to you. Please note some insurance policies may require a condition report be carried out, a condition report is also quite often required by the carrier for any claims in regards to damage. At minimum you should make sure you take comprehensive photos of your vehicle inside and out to prove a condition on delivery.
13. Can Leave documents in the cargo, unit or vehicle? no you must not leave vehicle registrations, invoices, Carnets identification or similar documents, they could be stolen or go missing and may be required for customs clearance and MUST not be left in the vehicle

Roll on Roll of shipping

14. Can I take personal effects: For motorhomes? For motorhomes, some carriers will allow you to take some limited items, like bedding, cutlery, camping gear and other small limited personal belongings. Any items taken must be stowed securely and out of sight, the unit should look empty, clean and tidy if inspected. Any items left in the vehicle are entirely at your own risk, neither we or the carrier will take responsibility or liability for any items in the vehicle and we are not able to insure them.

You are also responsible for ensuring that you meet any customs regulations in the port you are shipping from and to. Please note generally customs authorities in Germany in particular are paying close attention to items in privately owned vehicles, and in some cases items are being confiscated, and fines may be issued.

Please find below links to documentation produced by the carriers in regards to motorhomes and what can be left inside.

FAQ'S

K Line - May request you sign a disclaimer and provide a list of items in the vehicle
Other carriers – please contact us.

Please note the port staff will make any final decision on whether to accept cargo for shipping or not, if you have items clearly visible, not secure or represent a risk port staff at their own discretion may not accept the vehicle.

Please note at all times your shipment is subject to the conditions of the carrier and our terms & conditions. You will find that most occasions whether or not the carrier allows you to take personal effects, they state that they will not take any responsibility for personal effects or damage, and they are taken entirely at your own risk.

It is the shippers / cargo owners responsibility that you adhere to any customs regulations in the port you shipping from and the country you are shipping to.

If you wish a copy of the carrier's terms conditions please let us know and we shall forward you a copy.

Example Extracts of Terms from various carriers

"WW Ocean does not accept personal effects and will not be responsible for personal effects or any other goods shipped within automobiles, motorhomes or any other type of cargo, unless WW Ocean agrees in writing to accept such additional goods and extra freight is paid. WW Ocean reserves the right to refuse to load any cargo containing personal effects"

"Kline For used and unpacked units, the carrier is not responsible for any dents, bumps scratches, theft of any attachment parts or any objects which are inside the vehicle as well as damages of any kind – even if noted prior to shipment. During the transport, no loose items of any kind may be left in the vehicle. Carrier will deny the liability for such items. Carrier may refuse to load vehicles not adhering to the aforementioned."

"Grimaldi Any personal effects that remain within the vehicle (being not controlled for quantity, type and conditions by the Owners) travel at the risk and under the liability of the shipper. The shipper must be also aware that goods inside a Motorhome/Caravan may be subject to be controlled in transit as well as at POL & POD by Custom and/or police Authorities.

- If second hand, carrier is not responsible for dents, dents, scratches, bumps, pilferages, missing and removable fittings and/or accessories and damages whatsoever of any kind, even if not noticed before shipment;

- Shippers have been warned not to leave loose accessories or any loose items inside the vehicles tendered for shipment. Small Items should be packed in cartons/cases and locked in the luggage compartment and the line must be advised, at the time of booking, about the quantity and size/weight of cases or cartons involved and the number of the chassis and the exact location of the locker or luggage compartment where the accessories are stored, so as to advise surveyors to confirm the presence of the cases/cartons at the time of loading. The line will not accept any responsibility for missing items in case shippers fail to inform full details in advance;"

"Hoegh All cargo is to be free and clear of dirt and debris, and cargo must be free of any personal effects. Höegh Autoliners will not be responsible for any items left inside the unit, which are not required for the safe operation of the unit."

15. Can personal effects or other items be manifested? (The carrier's permission required) If you have any items to be manifested with your shipment you must provide us a complete list of items to be manifested, together values of the goods so that they can be declared to Customs. (Please note additional customs charges taxes or duties may apply)

You must put in writing to us that you to ship these items and for them be manifested prior to accepting, and that you request us to ask permission from the carrier to manifest those items prior to a booking being placed. (Please note your booking will not be considered confirmed until you receive in writing confirmation from the carrier that these items have been accepted to be manifested, if you to continue your booking without this confirmation you are doing so on the basis that the carrier will not be allowing/manifesting any items).

FAQ'S

Please do not proceed to place the booking without confirmation in writing from the carrier that they will a) manifest these items b) accept the booking, if you accept the booking without confirmation, and/or you deliver the vehicle to the port for shipping these items will not have be manifested.

Please note that we must seek permission for any manifested items with the carrier, the carrier may charge extra for the items. Also as above please note generally most carriers state no personal effects, with some exceptions for motorhome (dependant on carrier), and therefore they may refuse to take the booking. (Which is entirely their choice).

Please note it is your responsibility to ensure that you adhere to any customs requirements.

16. Can I pay additional fees to take personal effects or leave items in the vehicle - some carriers do allow you to pay additional fees on their agreement to take items in the vehicle. Please note unless stated otherwise, the carrier would still state that the items in the vehicle were taken at your own risk whether additional fees are paid or not.
17. Can I take personal effects with vehicles (which are not motorhomes)? No personal effects are allowed in the vehicle in its trunk, or in roof storage boxes. Only equipment defined as standard equipment of the vehicle when delivered from the manufacturer to the dealer e.g. vehicle toolbox, spare tyre, manuals etc. are accepted.

As above - neither we or the carrier will accept any liability in regards to any items left within the vehicle, any items left in the vehicle are entirely at your own risk.

18. What items can I not take? You cannot take any flammable or hazardous items in any way at all including the following:
 - No flammable or hazardous substances, pyrotechnics flares, oils, paints, solvents, No pressurized cans or containers or any kind
 - No medical supplies or equipment
 - No firearms or ammunition of any kind (even deactivated weapons or spent shells)
 - No perishable or tinned goods or foodstuffs, plants or vegetation
- You must not leave any valuable items in your vehicle, including
 - Electrical items – laptops, tablets & computers, GPS/navigation devices , drones, hard drives, cameras and camera equipment or similar items
 - Money, credit cards, precious stones or important documents
 - Vehicle documents (invoices, Registration, Title), or Carnet / CPD
19. Can I lock my vehicle after delivery to the port? The port staff will need access to the driver's seat to be able to drive the vehicle on and off the vessel. Sometimes customs or port staff may request access to other areas of the vehicle. Generally, this is on a case by case basis, dependent on the port, destination and cargo type. If you do wish to lock any part of your vehicle, please contact us in advance to discuss your requirements.
20. Can I take my motorcycle in or attached to my vehicle? In some cases, you can take a vehicle loaded with or with a motorcycle attached to it, however, it must be appropriately secured whether on a purpose-built platform or secured internally. Any motorcycles must be declared prior to booking and may incur additional charges. This is on a case-by-case basis and is dependent on the carrier. Please contact us for further information and details of any potential additional charges for taking a motorcycle with your main vehicle. Important – some countries only allow tourists to temporarily import single vehicle in the country, i.e Colombia, therefore it can be advantageous where possible to have the registration in your partners or even both names. For Colombia a separate Bill of lading is required for each vehicle and therefore this may incur additional fees.*
21. Can I take bicycles in or attached to my vehicle? In some cases, you can take a vehicle loaded with or with a bicycle attached to it, however, it must be appropriately secured whether on a purpose-built platform or secured internally. Any bicycles must be declared and may incur additional charges. This is on a case-by-case basis and is dependent on the carrier. Please contact us for further information and details of any potential additional charges for taking a bicycle with your main vehicle.

FAQ'S

22. Delivery & Measurement It is your responsibility to ensure that the vehicle is delivered in its smallest configuration, this means having all accessories retracted, and folding in the wing mirrors (please take photos of the unit as delivered on quay).

The carrier may measure the vehicle, they would normally measure its largest proportions including any accessories and wing mirrors, if these measurements are greater than those that have been declared by you, you will be charged for the measured dimensions at the applicable rate. Please note it is your responsibility to ensure that the dimensions declared are correct, and the vehicle is delivered in accordance with the declared dimensions (i.e ensuring any accessories are retracted, wing mirrors folded in)

23. Vehicle measurements? You would have already provided us with the dimensions of your vehicle, however, you should check that these are accurate. The measurement should represent the longest length, the highest height and the widest width of the unit including accessories and mirrors.
24. What if my measurements are different from those measured at the port? If your vehicle is measured at the port and there is a discrepancy between the measurements declared and those measured, we will provide you details of the new measurements. On most occasions, you will have the opportunity to have the unit remeasured if you disagree with them however it would be at your cost. If the measurements are greater than those declared you will be billed the rate applicable for the measured dimensions. (Penalty fees may apply). - Please note it is your responsibility to ensure that the dimensions declared are correct, and the vehicle is delivered in accordance with the declared dimensions (i.e ensuring any accessories are retracted, wing mirrors folded in)
25. Damage to vehicles - please note all cargo is shipped subject to the conditions of the carrier and our own conditions. Please note generally most carriers state that they do not take any responsibility for to damage to the vehicles, including and not limited to (chips, dents, bends, marring, bumps, and scratching) therefore it is recommended that you take out appropriate insurance to cover for the same when possible.

If you wish a copy of the carrier's terms conditions please let us know and we shall forward you a copy.

Container shipping

26. What are the door sizes of the container?

Container dimensions

40ft

Door opening height 2.58m (inside 2.69m)
Door opening width 2.34m
Usable internal length 11.50m

20ft

Door opening height 2.28m (inside 2.39m)
Door opening width 2.34m
Usable internal length 5.50m

27. Can I take personal effects? – Yes, you may pack personal effects in your container, a packing list will be required for customs.
28. Can I lock the vehicle and keep the keys? It really depends on the route which we are shipping you, and your availability to be present when the container arrives. For shipments into Europe, it is better the keys are left with the vehicle so that the container can be unloaded in a timely manner. For shipments to other parts of the world, we may recommend keeping the vehicle keys with you, however, this is on a case-by-case basis, so please contact us in regards to your specific requirements.
29. What items can I not take? You cannot not take any flammable or hazardous items in any way at all including the following:

- No Lithium-ion batteries (unless declared as Hazardous – SDS / MSDS sheet & UN38.3 Test report required - Additional fees apply) – Must be advised prior to booking and accepted in writing.
- Your fuel tank must be empty / in the red.

You must not leave any items / valuable items in your vehicle, including

- Electrical items – laptops, tablets & computers, GPS/navigation devices, drones, hard drives, cameras and camera equipment, printers or similar items
- Money, credit cards, precious stones or important documents
- Vehicle documents, invoices, registration or Carnets
- Commercial items, or items for sale
- Any items household items in relation to house moving/relocation

Lithium batteries

30. Lithium Auxiliary batteries the rules for different batteries may differ by the mode of transport, i.e. Roll on Roll Off or container, and the carrier transporting them. Therefore as per our terms conditions these must be declared and agreed with us in writing.

For containers - they must be shipped hazardous and they will incur additional fees for both import and export
For RORO - it depends on the carrier, therefore please speak to us.

Under all circumstances is your responsibility to ensure that you have verified and obtain the documentation for your battery, this may include the MSDS, SDS & UN38.3 summary test sheet or UN38.3 full test sheet, and that you adhere to any regulation or rules for dangerous and hazardous cargo.

You must declare these to us prior to booking.

It is the sole responsibility of the Client to explicitly declare in writing the presence of any hazardous or dangerous cargo, provide all requisite documentation and descriptions, check and verify any specific requirements under imo code or any other rules or regulation and secure explicit written approval from the Company for the shipment of said cargo. In the absence of written confirmation, the goods must not be shipped. It is important to note that providing a packing list does not constitute a written declaration, and the acceptance of a packing list does not imply approval of the goods' details, any items or any hazardous nature thereof.

Always subject to acceptance of the cargo by the carrier and port

For further information please read our terms and conditions

GAS/LPG Tanks

31. The rules regarding gas tanks vary by mode of transport and carrier however generally we do not accept removable gas tanks whatsoever, these must be removed.

Most clients will find that it is not only cheaper but more practical to buy a new take at the destination, as it would have the correct fittings for refill in that particular region or country.

Under some circumstances fixed tanks may be taken provided there is a gas free certificate, this acceptance differs by carrier, and therefore you should check with us at the booking stage.

You must declare these to us prior to booking any gas or LPG tanks.

Vessel tracking / Route

32. Can I track the vessel? Yes, you can track the vessel on marinetraffic.com, enter the vessels name in the search box and the website will show you the current position of the ship and next port of call.

Only a few carriers allow you to track the vessel on their own website using either the booking number or BL Number, if they do, we will also provide you with the link.

WWL	Tracking Link
Kline	Tracking Link
Hoegh	Tracking Link
NYK	Tracking Link
Grimaldi & ACL	Tracking Link
Maersk	Tracking Link
MSC	Tracking Link

33. Is the vessels route guaranteed? No, We do our best to provide as much information as possible as to the route of the vessel and the stops that it makes, however the route and stops are not guaranteed, these can be changed by the carrier without notice. Therefore any information provided is for information only and should not be relied upon.
34. Is this a time guaranteed service ? No, this is not a time guaranteed service or a premium service, generally timeliness in the shipping industry are not reliable, shipping dates can and do change, services can be cancelled, they can leave earlier or later and there can be delays en route. The shipping companies can change the route of the vessel, and decided not to call at some ports. Although we try our best to provide you reliable information on the departure and arrival dates these cannot be guaranteed and you should not place reliance upon these dates for any reason.

Clearing agents and services

35. Do I have to use your services for export? For all exports, you must use our services or our appointed agent's services for export procedures.
36. Do I have to use your services for import? No, you may appoint your own agent to assist you with import procedures, or you may use our services and appointed agents. If you do decide to use your own agent, we would request that you provide us with their details prior to delivery of your vehicle to the port or warehouse.
37. Can I self-clear/ carry out import procedures myself? It depends on the port of arrival, some destinations or carriers require that a local agent is used, and therefore self-clearing is not possible. For some destinations and ports, self-clearing is possible, if it is, you will be given the choice to use our services or to carry out the clearing yourself. You will be provided information in your quotation as to whether you can carry out self-clearing.

Import / arrival

FAQ'S

38. Will I be advised of when the vessel arrives? If you have chosen to use our services for import procedures, then we will advise you of the arrival of the vessel. Normally the carrier will provide us with an arrival notice 3 to 5 working days in advance. If you have not chosen to take our services, then either the carrier will contact you or your agent directly, or you will have to contact the carrier for further information.
39. What is the procedure on arrival if I have chosen to take your services? We will notify you when your vessel is due to arrive, the procedure is different at individual ports however this is the procedure we would normally undertake: (expect clearance under normal circumstances to take 3 to 5 working days from the arrival of the vessel, if the cargo is selected for an inspection then it may take 5 to 10 working days or more)
- We will notify you of the expected time of arrival, and expected pickup date, we will only know the exact date once the vessel has actually arrived, the vehicle has been discharged (this can take 24 to 48 hours), and it has been customs cleared.
 - Once the vessel has arrived and destination country, Customs will advise us whether it has been selected for further inspection,
 - If it has not been selected for further inspection we would expect to receive customs clearance in 2 to 3 working days
 - if it has been selected for inspection, then this will normally delay the release process, there may be a requirement for the inspection process to be attended, or for it to be booked in for scanning. Generally being selected for inspection will delay the release by 3 to 7 days, but this can take longer.
 - If you are required to provide any documentation or carry out any of the procedures in person, we will notify you of this and provide instructions.
 - On confirmation that the vehicle has been customs cleared, we will then notify you that you may pick up the vehicle, please note all fees must be settled prior to picking up the vehicle.

Please generally note, that there are often delays in the arrival of shipments, and quite often they can be delays with customs clearance or inspections, and therefore we strongly advise that you do not go to the port until such time we advise you when the vehicle has been fully customs cleared.

40. Can I leave my vehicle at the port or warehouse for collection later? Yes, you may leave the vehicle at the port or warehouse for collection later, generally there is a set amount of free time where no additional charges will be incurred, however, after this, there would be storage charges. Please note this is on a case-by-case basis, some countries have strict rules regarding the amount of time a vehicle can be left at the port, please contact us for further information.
41. Are there any charges that are not included in your quotation? Any taxes, duties, or additional fees in relation to customs inspections, quarantine intervention/inspection, container detentions or delays are not included in our quotation and will be on the account of the consignee, unless stated otherwise.
42. When can I go to the port or warehouse to collect my vehicle? It depends on the port of arrival and shipping method. Generally speaking under normal circumstances your vehicle be ready for collection 3 to 5 working days after arrival of the vessel. However we strongly advise that you do not go to the port or the port terminal to wait for your vehicle to be released until we have confirmed that Customs release has been received, as there are routinely delays. If your vehicle has been selected for customs inspection this may take even longer, and there is no guarantee of how long the process will take.
43. My vehicle has been selected for a customs inspection what I need to know? Customs inspections in many destinations are very routine / usual, it could be a simple carnet inspection, an agriculture inspection, x-ray, or full inspection.
- You may be requested to attend the inspection, this is wholly dependent on method of shipping & the port of arrival & Customs, we will let you know if your presence will be needed.
 - If there are any locked cupboards or areas of the vehicle, then the keys will need to be delivered at your own cost to the terminal, warehouse or our local agent.
 - If you have shipped via container, then there will be additional fees for customs, and storage of the container, these can be quite significant in some parts of the world, and unfortunately our wholly unavoidable, and for the shipper to pay.
 - If you have shipped via Roll on Roll Off, and there is a requirement for the inspection to be attended, then there will be additional fees payable and there could be additional x-ray or customs inspection costs.

FAQ'S

- It is very likely that if your cargo is been selected for inspection, that there will be a delay upon release, on average been selected for inspection will add 3 to 5 working days to the release, but it could be longer.
- Under no circumstances, should the shipper go to the terminal themselves to attempt to expedite the process or wait for release without our instruction, as in the majority of cases, this actually causes a delay.

It is very important to take note that, all charges in relation to being selected for a Customs inspection are chargeable to the shipper, and that these must be fully paid prior to release of the cargo.*

Marine cargo insurance

It is essential that Marine cargo insurance is taken out for your goods without insurance it is unlikely that your cargo will be fully be covered for loss or damage, or that any liability will be significantly limited, subject to both our conditions, any subcontractor or warehouse and the carriers. You should not assume that since the vehicle is in a third party's possession that they will have the responsibility and liability to fully cover any damage or loss. You may also be liable for general average claims.

44. Do you provide Marine cargo insurance? Yes, we can provide marine cargo insurance for your shipment. We offer several different types of policies with varying rates, all policies have a minimum charge of €£90 and an excess $750.

We offer the following options, all insurances are completed as a percentage of the vehicle value plus shipping costs.

- All risks excluding chips dents marring and scratching) - this will cover your vehicle for total loss and significant damage.

Neither policy we offer will cover personal effects inside the vehicle for RORO*

Modifications to the vehicle are covered provided you have evidence/receipts for any works carried out.*

45. What is the difference between the policies?

- All risks - Covers the vehicle for significant damage and total loss, it will not cover the vehicle for minor scratches and chips dents marring and scratching.

46. How is the cost calculated - The cost is calculated follows:

The insured vehicle value plus shipping costs x the percentage of the policy chosen

47. Does the insurance cover personal effects for RORO - No it does not cover any personal effects or other items inside the vehicle for RORO.
48. Does the insurance cover modifications to the vehicle? Yes provided they are professionally installed and can be proven with receipts etc.
49. Do we recommend taking out insurance? Yes we believe it is essential, as there is limited liability on the carrier and all other parties in relation to the shipment and cargo, it is also important to protect yourself from General Average claims.
50. Can I see the terms conditions – yes, you can view them here Insurance T&C's
51. Is there an excess on the policy? Yes the greater of USD$750
52. Do you provide insurance for personal effects? Yes, we can provide insurance for personal effects when you ship in a container, we are unable to provide insurance for personal effects with Roll on Roll Off shipping, we do not recommend. The cost for personal effects is 1.3% of their value with a minimum charge of €£90. (Please note is self packing any goods may limit insurance coverage, please see the specific policy terms conditions for more information)

FAQ'S

Payment

53. When will I be invoiced? We will normally invoice you for all costs once the vessel has sailed, sometimes we may invoice you a few days prior to the arrival of the vessel if we have booked this on a collect basis, and sometimes for certain shipments, we may ask for advance payment. We will advise you when payment is due with your booking.
54. How can I make payment? Payment can be made by bank transfer, we can accept money in USD to a USA bank account, EUR to a Belgium based bank account, AUD to an Australian bank account and GBP to a UK bank account. Unfortunately, we are not able to take payment by cheque and we are able to collect payment by cash. Please note sometimes a proportion payments may be payable locally in cash, if this is the case, we will advise you.
55. I would like to pay by Credit or Debit Card – We can accept payments by debit or credit card subject to a transaction fees for Non UK Cards (Normally around 3% -3.75%), you can also use a service like TransferWise to collect money from your card and have this transferred to one of our bank accounts.
56. Will you pay my bank fees? No, you must ensure that you cover any bank fees for making a payment to us. We must receive in our account the full amount in the currency invoiced.

FAQ'S

Payment must be received in full in the currency invoiced, the client is responsible for any bank charges, so please ensure you have accounted for these when making the payment.*

Please ensure you use the full account name, if your bank does not allow all the characters, please continue in the reference field, For USA payment please ensure you state the bank address "Exactly" as above.*

USA Payment double check with your bank with it's a Wire or ACH payment, a wire is normally same day and costs around $30. It is important the correct routing code is used for the payment method.*

Permanent Imports / Exports, taxes and duties

58. Do you provide services for Permanent Import and Export? Yes, for certain countries we can provide permanent import and export services, these include European countries (Germany, Belgium, Netherlands, United Kingdom), Australia, South Africa, the United States and Canada.
59. Does your quotation include the costs of any duties and tax payable? Our quotation excludes any taxes and duties payable, this will be calculated once we have secured your booking.

Booking flights, accommodation or other transport

60. Can I book my flights once the shipment has been confirmed? We generally advise our clients to book refundable flights or to book them once your vehicle has been loaded on to the vessel and has been shipped. The reason for this is that sailing dates and schedules can change without notice, the carrier can even cancel the sailing. Different routes have different levels of risk, please contact us for further information in relation to specific requirements.

Please note neither us or the carriers are liable for any costs incurred in relation to delays or cancelled shipments.*

What are your terms & conditions, and are there any restrictions on liability.

61. Our terms conditions can be found here terms and conditions, these terms & conditions also set out any liability limitation, you should ensure that you have fully read and understand the terms conditions in full prior to booking. The terms also set out If you have any questions in regards terms conditions please do not hesitate to ask.
62. Please note the shipment is also subject to the carrier's terms conditions/ Bill of lading conditions you can find details of these for some carriers listed below , for any others please ask us to obtain a copy for you .

It is important to note, that the majority of carriers will state on the bill of lading that they are not responsible for damage to vehicles or pilferage, this includes and is not limited to dents, bents, bumps, scratches and marring. We strongly advise taking out an insurance policy for your vehicle, as the carriers and our liability is limited.

Vehicle damage / Insurance claims

63. What should I do if my vehicle has been damaged? The first and most important thing you must do, is to record the damage, it would be best to take photos of any damage and then report this to the port in writing. Most ports will have a shipment damage process to follow, and will provide you with a damage report. This report is required to prove the state of the vehicle on receipt of delivery at the port. You should not leave the port until the damage has been recorded and reported.

64. How do I make a claim for damage if I have insurance? If you have taken out marine cargo insurance then you should follow the instructions contained with the insurance policy, this will include notifying the carrier in writing of a claim, and then contacting the handling agent in the country of arrival.
65. How do I make a claim for damage if I do not have insurance? If you have not taken out marine cargo insurance which covers any damage that has occurred then you should follow the instructions in FAQ 41, and forward evidence of the damage together with the report to the carrier's claims department. The carrier will need to ascertain whether the damage took place on board the vessel or at the port. You must be able to provide evidence of the vehicles condition prior to and after shipping.

For any claims it is extremely important to be able to demonstrate the condition of the vehicle prior to shipping and on receipt, and provide suitable evidence, and an estimation/value of any claim made. As above you should not leave the port without having the damage confirmed in writing, without this it is extremely hard to make a claim. Prior to delivery it is advisable to take photos or to request a condition report or survey to be carried out. Please note condition reports or surveys are at the shippers cost and must be requested.*
